Two-Pager Rubric

Structure and Development

1.) In your first paragraph you should tell what your two-pager is about, present your main idea (thesis/argument), and introduce the type of evidence you will use to support your main idea.

- Two-pager is written about: _____________________________(5 pts)
- Your main idea: _____________________________(5 pts)
- Introduce your evidence?: Yes: _________ No:_______ ____(5 pts)

2.) In the body of your two-pager, you should use evidence to support your main idea and then connect your evidence to your main idea. Please give examples of this here:

- Evidence introduced: _______________________________________
  ___________________________________________________(10 pts)
- Evidence incorporated (embedded)____________________________
  ___________________________________________________ (10 pts)
- Evidence connected to main idea____________________________
  ___________________________________________________ (10 pts)

3.) In the conclusion of your two-pager, you should restate the main idea using different words, paraphrase the evidence you have used to support your main idea, and conclude with your evaluation of the main idea.

- Main idea(restated): _____________________________(5 pts)
- Paraphrased evidence?:  Yes:______  No:_________ (5 pts)
- Your evaluation: _____________________________(5 pts)
Give at least one example of each of these skills in your two-pager:

Close Reading

- An inference answering a question not directly stated in the text:
  ________________________________________________________________ (8 pts)

Tone and Diction

- An example of using vocabulary specific to the study of English (symbol, imagery, theme, etc.):
  ________________________________________________________________ (8 pts)

Use the following checklist to make sure that you have followed the guidelines for standard English.

Using Standard English

- MLA format Yes________ No___________ (8 pts)
- Proper spelling, punctuation and grammar.
  Yes________ No___________ (8 pts)
- Support for your thoughts in well-developed paragraphs.
  Yes________ No___________ (8 pts)